DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

The following application contains a species election; within the second option of the election, there exists another species election. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Specie 1: A method for categorizing a dataset comprising a plurality of datapoints for the purpose of NOT categorizing an allele. (Claims 1-8)

Specie 2: A method for categorizing a dataset comprising a plurality of datapoints for the purpose of categorizing an allele. (Claims 1-41)

Generic to Species: Claims 1-8

Reason: Each application of the method is a distinct and unique specie from which the central idea of the invention can be used. The first eight claims represent a generalization of the remaining 33 claims, and thus the idea of performing the inventive method on other aspects besides categorization of alleles is distinct from performing the method steps on datapoints for the purpose of categorizing alleles.

If Specie 2 is chosen, the following election must take place:

Specie 2-A: Said condition comprised a substantial majority of datapoints in said first category having an angular value higher than a predetermined threshold. (Claims 20-21)

Art Unit: 1631

Specie 2-B: Said condition comprised a substantial majority of datapoints in said third category having an angular value lower than a predetermined threshold. (Claims 22-23)

Specie 2-C: Said condition comprised a substantial majority of datapoints in said second category having an angular value lower than a first predetermined threshold or higher than a second predetermined threshold. (Claims 24-25)

Specie 2-D: Said condition comprises the difference between the largest angular value of a datapoint in a category and the smallest angular value of a datapoint in the category exceeding a predetermined threshold. (Claims 26-27)

Generic claims: 1, 9-19, 28-41

Reason: Each of the specie imposes a different criteria for selection of the presence of a condition. Each is independent, distinct. And provides undue burden when seached together.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
